

Night of the Living Dead

TV Announcer: Thank you, Bill, for that report. Official spokesmen declined to speculate just how long it may take to kill off all the flesh eaters, so long as the heavy—

[The power goes out.]

Ben: Is the fuse box in the cellar?

Harry: I don't know, I...

[Ben goes downstairs.]

Harry: It isn't the fuse. The power lines are down.

Harry, to Helen: Helen, I have to get that gun.

Helen: Haven't you had enough?

Harry: Two people are dead already on account of that guy. Take a look out that window...

[Ben returns.]

[The zombies approach the house and begin to bang on the door to get inside. The occupants of the house, except Ben, rush to reinforce the door.]

Ben, to Harry: Get over here, man! Come on!

[In the struggle to keep the zombies out, Ben's rifle falls to the floor, and Harry grabs it, pointing it at Ben.]

Harry: Go ahead, go ahead. You want to stay up here now? Helen, get in the cellar. Get in the cellar now! Move!

[Ben pulls a plank from the door and throws it at Harry, who stumbles as Ben rushes forward to take the rifle from him. They struggle over the rifle, and Ben wrestles it from him as Harry falls to the ground. Ben aims the rifle at Harry and shoots him in the abdomen.]

[The zombies continue to break through, grabbing at Helen

[Harry, injured, moves down the stairs into the cellar and crawls toward Karen, who lies ill on a table.]

[The zombies continue to pull at Karen as the barricaded door begins to give way. Barbara takes a piece of wood and rushes to the door to keep the zombies out and free Helen.]

[Helen rushes to the cellar, where Karen, now a zombie, is eating Harry's flesh.]

Helen: Karen? Karen?

[Karen begins to walk toward Helen, arms outstretched.]

Helen: Karen? Poor baby.

[Helen trips and falls backward to the floor. Karen takes a trowel off the wall and raises it over her head as a weapon. Helen begins to whimper, then scream, as Karen walks toward her. She screams as Karen stabs her.]