

THINK

As a first-year student, you do not have to know exactly what you want to do when you graduate from college. What is important, however, is to take advantage of the resources and support available. List three strategies that can help you make the right career choice.

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____