

INSTRUCTOR: Contemporary dream analysts have come to a general consensus that there is probably not a specific reason for why we dream. The reasoning-- we remember so little of our dreams. If they were so important, wouldn't we remember them?